Radioactive decay of a single nucleus can emit more than one type of radiation at a time.