

Oxygen is released into the atmosphere when oil is burned in a power station.