

Atoms of an element with the same number of protons,
but a different number of neutrons are called

.....