

Which form of energy transfer does not involve the movement of particles?