

We can measure the voltage across a component using a