

If an object is stationary and the forces acting on it amount to 0, will it start to move?