Radioactive material ingested (swallowed) for medical reasons, such as tracers, should have a half life.